SEEKS BURIAL WITH SLAIN SWEETHEART.

"Bob! Bob! I want to go with you!" shrieked Otto Hack Saturday morning, as he attempted to leap into the grave into which had just been lowered the coffin of his affianced wife, Barbara Reig, killed in an Irving Park shelter house, presumably by David Sheppard, a Brooklyn policeman. The frantic man was restrained, and later, kneeling on the new-made grave, he vowed to find his sweetheart's slayer and avenge her death.

The funeral of Barbara Reig, who was killed Tuesday night, took place Saturday morning from her home in Major street, Brooklyn, followed by requiem mass at St. Nicholas Catholic Church, and so great was the crowd at the house that the policemen were detailed to keep order. The burial was in Holy Trinity cemetery, where a distressing scene was enacted at the grave. As the coffin was lowered into the grave and the ropes cast off, there was a stir in the crowd of mourners, and, pushing his way through, Otto Hack, who was soon to have married Barbara, attempted to throw himself into the grave. Dave Reig, Barbara's brother, and her brother-in-law, stepped quickly forward and caught Hack by the arms. He became hysterical, crying out:

"Bob! Bob! They have taken you away and I want to go with you! They said you were not true to me, but I never believed them!"

Gradually Hack was quieted and remained calm until the grave diggers had finished their filling in, when he sank down on the new-made mound and exclaimed:

"I will find the man who murdered your Barbara, if it takes me all my life!"

"F. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Geo. DeWitt—in 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. In the spring of 1902 I bought a bottle of Kodol and the benefit I received all the gold of Georgia could not buy. May you live long and prosper. Yours very truly, C. N. Cornell, Redding, Conn., Aug. 2, 1906." Sold by W. F. Creighton & Co.

THE FISHER-RAYNER INCIDENT

Frankly declaring that her intense love for William B. Rayner was the cause of her recent act, Mrs. William B. Fisher, of Baltimore, on Saturday gave her version of her elopement with the son of Maryland's senator, which ended in young Rayner being sent to a sanitarium for treatment. Mrs. Fisher is now stopping at the Hotel Walton in Philadelphia, where she went upon arriving in Baltimore on Norfolk on Thursday morning, and it was in the Quaker City that she told her story, which has added another interesting chapter to one of the biggest sensations that Baltimore society has known for sometime. Mrs. Fisher stated that she loves young Rayner and that he reciprocates her affection and that he is not insane. Mrs. Fisher denied that she had ever said to anyone that she hated her husband, "I never made any such statement," said she. "I do not hate him, nor do I hate my children. My husband is a very nice man. But I loved another, and I regret what I have done out for my children's sake. I am genuinely sorry for them. I feel lonely without them."

Asked if she loved Rayner, Mrs. Fisher said: "Would a woman leave her husband and her children and be as blind to the future as I have been and run away with another man if she did not love him? I loved him madly. I loved him when he was drunk from absinthe, insanely drunk. Ah, that is the unfortunate part of it. I love him still," and she wrung her hands in her anguish.

Asked if she had heard in any manner from her husband since her elopement, she replied: "Yes, I have heard from him. Only last night I was talking with him over the long distance telephone, and he was kindness itself to me and told me that he would still do anything he could to help me. And now tonight when I called him up on the phone again he refused to talk to me. It is these awful things quoted in the papers that have made him go back on me."

"Now I have no plans. I do not know what I am to do. Mr. Rayner is not insane, although it is difficult for me to tell just what he will do and when he will regain his liberty."

"He started today to get a divorce from his wife, so that he can marry me, and he will surely do so, but how can I wait? I am afraid it will kill me. Oh, it is too terrible for words. I don't know what to do."

United States Senator Isidor Rayner has been appointed a commissioner in lunacy over his son, William B. Rayner, who is now in strict surveillance. A consultation of physicians and alienists was held Friday evening to determine in what institution young Rayner shall be confined, but their decision, if any, has not been made public. Friends who know him say he spent at least $50,000 in his rambles.

Mrs. Fisher was a Miss Ridgely and belonged to one of the old families of Maryland. Her husband is a member of the firm of J. H. Housens Fisher & Fous, a firm of bankers and brokers which has been prominent in financial circles in Baltimore for two generations. He has already brought suit for divorce and it is unlikely that Mrs. Fisher will contest it.
